Although there is no dress code as such, for foreigners, it is better to wear modest clothes, and conservative clothing is recommended. This implies no shorts for men, and no mini-skirts or tank tops for women. Foreign visitors are expected to dress in a style that is sensitive to Islamic culture. Shipping, Customs and Imports

Shipping, Customs and Imports

Before you move to Qatar you should decide what items are worth transporting with you, and what you can buy once you arrive. When considering this you should also think about import and customs fees. For example, cars are much cheaper in Qatar than in most other countries, and Qatar also places import fees on cars, so instead of shipping your current vehicle to Qatar you might consider selling it and purchasing a vehicle in Qatar. It is also possible to rent furnished property in Qatar, so you may not need to ship your furniture with you either.

When your items arrive in Qatar you will be contacted by the Qatar Customs Department located at the airport (or port). You may have to pay certain taxes/duty on these items before taking receipt of your belongings. You must make sure your shipments arrive in Qatar after you do, as it is impossible to clear customs without presenting a passport.

Shipping Options: Ground, Sea or Air

The three basic options are to go by ground, sea or by air, or a combination of the three. Most companies offer all options, so inquire about the price difference and decide which method is best for you.

Shipping, Customs and Imports

Ground

Moving with only ground travel is uncommon unless moving a short distance. This is much slower than flying, but much less expensive. This method is often done in conjunction with sea or air shipping.

Sea

To move by sea takes about 8-6 weeks (sometimes up to 3 months) but costs less than traveling by air. If moving by sea, your household goods will be packed into containers that are usually loaded at your residence. Once your home is packed into the containers, they are then shipped by rail or transport to the port where they are then loaded on to a steamship container. The container is then loaded on the boat as cargo.

Once your goods have arrived in Qatar, the container is unloaded and must pass through customs. International movers will be able to help you with the custom forms and are responsible for clearing your goods.

Air

Moving household items by air is becoming increasingly popular, despite a much higher price tag. Heavy cardboard boxes are normally used to pack your goods, although some airfreight companies will use containers. You may find that shipping items by air is less expensive than renting a furnished place or living in a hotel. Due to the frequency of air travel, shipping items by air is usually a fast option.

Airfreight is calculated on either the actual gross weight of the consignment or the volume weight, whichever is the greater. Weight is expressed in kilograms. To calculate the volume weight of a given item we multiply the length, breadth and height in centimeters and divide by 6000 to obtain the volume weight in kilos. For household goods the volume weight generally exceeds the gross weight.

Shipping, Customs and Imports

Evaluating Shipping Options

Some basic factors in determining the best shipping method are:

Volume

This is important for road and sea shipments.

Weight and Volume

Evaluate the weight of items for air shipments.

Final Destination

If you are moving across the globe (e.g. from the USA to Qatar), you might want to ship the majority of your personal belongings by sea container and a small portion of things you will need upon your arrival by air.

Moving Schedule

How soon do you need to receive your personal belongings at your destination? Do you already have accommodation (temporary or permanent)? Will you need to store some items until you find permanent accommodation?

Budget

Who is paying for your move? Your company or yourself?
What is your allowance for the move?

The customs entry point for most people going to Qatar is the Doha International Airport. If you are travelling by boat, your point of entry for customs is Salwa Overland Customs, Mesaieed Port, Doha Port or Ras Laffan. The Customs authority in Qatar is Qatar Customs.

Shipping, Customs and Imports

Prohibited Imports to Qatar

It is illegal to import drugs, alcohol, pornography, pork products, Israeli currency, and religious books and materials to Qatar. All luggage is scanned at the arrivals hall of the Doha airport for these items. DVDs and videos imported to Qatar may be censored.

Importing Pets to Qatar

It is relatively easy to bring your pet to Qatar compared to other countries (i.e. the UK, Malta, etc.)

Qatar does restrict the import of certain breeds of dogs, including Boxers, Boerboels, Boston Terriers, Bulldogs, Bull terriers, Rottweilers, Chinese Shar-Peis, Great Danes, Japanese Akitas, Neapolitan Mastiffs, Afghan Hounds, Staffordshire Bull Terriers and Dobermans. You can only import pets older than 4 months old to Qatar.

Taking your pet into Qatar usually includes:

- Import license – You can obtain an import license from Qatar's Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Agriculture. Licenses are only valid for one month from the date of issue. To obtain an application form, visit a Department of Animal Resources' veterinary clinic on Al Matar Street, Al Rayyan or Al Shamal. To fill out the import license application form, «consignee» is the individual who will collect your pet at the airport. You also need a copy of paperwork indicating your pet's latest rabies injection, and a copy of your passport and Qatari ID (if possible).
- Micro chipping – Verifies a pet's identity. All microchips conforming to the ISO standards are easily readable using electronic scanners.
- Vaccination – In Qatar, all imported pets must be vaccinated against rabies within the last year. Dogs may also get full shots for Distemper, Hepatitis, Leptospirosis, Parvo, and DHLPP. Cats may also be vaccinated against Viral Rhinotracheitis, Calicivirus, and Panleukopenia, and Feline Flu.
- Certificate of good health – Issued by a state veterinarian (a veterinarian who works for the state, usually in an agriculture ministry, for example) after an exam no more than 7 days before your pet's arrival in Qatar. This certificate should be in English.

Transporting Pets to Qatar

Some airlines allow pets to travel in an airplane's cabin, provided their cage is small enough to fit under your seat. Small birds may also be able to travel in the cabin, but tropical birds such as parrots are usually not allowed.

If your pet's cage does not fit under your seat, you will have to ship it as checked baggage or cargo. Since the outside air temperature also affects the temperature in the cargo bay, airlines may restrict the transportation of pets during certain times of the year. Airlines have special requirements for containers in the cabin and cargo bay. Make sure you get detailed information from your preferred airlines before purchasing a cage or kennel. Your pet should be able to comfortably stand and turn around in their carrier.

Before leaving, acquaint your animal with the kennel or container. Add some familiar toys or some of your clothing items, so your pet has a sense of familiarity during the transport. In many cases it is helpful to allow or encourage your pet to sleep in their kennel or container, so they begin to see it as a «safe» place. Sedation of your pet during the trip is generally not recommended and should only be used as a last resort.

There are also pet relocation services in Doha that figure out all the details of the move. These services tend to be quite expensive, but take away the stress of doing it yourself. Doha Vets is one such service.

Quarantine in Qatar

If you do not comply with the regulations listed above in «Pets» your pet may be refused entry to Qatar or may be quarantined. Pets are quarantine at a special facility at the airport. Quarantine periods are usually as long as it takes to secure the proper documents or vaccinations.
